

Rebuilding trust.

Restoring community.

Redefining finance.

U.S. household debt reached $18.2 trillion in Q1 2025, the highest in history. As more Americans rely on borrowing to move forward, access to capital has never been more unequal. Cube's mission is to make capital accessible without loans or interest.

We empower group, friends, coworkers, and entrepreneurs to pool their savings, create shared funds, and rotate access to the total. Each cycle, one member receives the collective contribution until everyone has taken a turn. It's a modern revival of community finance: simple, transparent, and debt-free. Cube turns consistent saving into collective capital, redefining how people fund opportunity together.

Cube turns human trust into programmable finance. Our platform digitizes the Ekub system, enabling groups to save, lend, and grow together securely and transparently

We're transforming community finance into a global, automated network of shared prosperity.